Tom,

Easy for a guy that doesn't face the interest rate clock to be cavalier about getting this tried. Particularly one who is claiming 12% interest (which, of course we contest). All kidding aside, this has been going on for 4 years and our clients need to bring this matter to a close. Let me know if you agree that if we provide your experts the 2 week extension, you are prepared to stay on track with respect to the trial date. Chris

Chris:

Just because I'm curious, what is so important about keeping the currently scheduled trial date? Litigation schedules, including trial dates, move all the time.

Chris:

Sorry for the delay. I'll look at this first thing in the morning and call to discuss. Also, my rebuttal experts will need an additional two weeks (until Sept 28) to complete their reports. Do the defendants have any objection? Let me know.

Thank you,
Tom
